Dear Todd & Candice -

It is very exciting news to hear that you both will be embarking on the wonderful journey of parenthood. I know that you will make incredible parents when the time presents itself. Over the years, it has been so wonderful to stay in touch with you both and witness you building a life around each other. It has also been exciting to watch you transform your house into one that is not just aesthetically beautiful, but one that is suitable for starting that family. My children have had such fun visiting you during the wonderful January soup nights.. We look forward to more in the future.

I really have only one concern to share. I am uneasy about the idea that you will raise a child, or children if you so chose, that will be a NY Jets fan through and through. I would hope you would allow that child to decide what NFL colors they may want to wear. Or maybe they would rather get outside on a Fall Sunday afternoon?? Only kidding, of course!

With best wishes for all of the happiness ahead,
