Dear Todd and Candice,

Thank you for the opportunity to brag on you guys! We are so excited for the steps you are taking to become parents! We hope that your dreams will come true soon!

We know that you would make amazing parents because ...

1. You are financially stable. You are both highly educated and have very good jobs. You have learned to budget your money wisely. You live life and enjoy it, but are careful not to go beyond your limits.
2. You are at that phase in your life when you are ready to be parents. You have had time to get to know each other and build a strong relationship. Having children is the next step in growing your partnership.
3. You both are loving and patient people. That's what emanates from both of you. You will give your children quality time and show you are devoted to them and their well-being.

We both agree the path you lead your children down in life will be educational, fun, and full of love.

With Love,

Just FYI ... Caeli [age 6] asked what I was doing and I explained to her about your letter. She responded with "Aunt Candice and Uncle Todd should get a baby because they are good people, they are really nice, and they do nice things for people. That's why they deserve a baby." She is on your side too!
